GREENEVILLE

wo Prominent Local Men Died or Wednesday-Meeting of Missionary

At 12 o'clock Thursday morning death came to Henry A. Pitcher, one of Greeneville's most representative citizens, at his home on Prospect street. He was taken suddenly ill on Sunday with bronchial pneumonia, which caused his death. Up to the time of this last sickness Mr. Pitcher had been in comparatively good health. He was born in Greeneville on September 4, 1844, and had made his home in this place during his whole life. He was first employed as a clerk and later engaged in the grocery business for himself. Mr. Pitcher was associated in this business with his brother, A. H. Pitcher, for some time, and later with A. B. Maine, the latter partnership being dissolved in 1897, when Mr. Pitcher retired from the business. Since that time he has not been actively engaged, although he was a partner in the firm of Bisket & Pitcher. The firm was a few years ago changed to Pitcher & Service, and Mr. Pitcher's interest has since been turned over to his son, William A. Pitcher Mr. Pitcher was a member of Somersat lodge. No. 34. A. F. and A. M. Mr. Pitcher was a member of Som-erset lodge, No. 34, A. F. and A. M., and attended the Greeneville Congreational church. He was married in May, 1881,

Mr. Pitcher is remembered by his business associates as a man of great ability and unquestionable integrity. He was a home-loving man and a devoted husband and father. He leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his loss, and the bereaved family has the heartfelt sympathy of all in their sorrow.

Death of G. H. Benjamin. The death of George H. Benjamin occurred at 4.30 o'clock Thursday morning at his home on Central avenue. He had been sick for about ten days and death was caused by pneu-

He was born in Preston, August, 1856, the son of Louis S. and Ann Hinckley Benjamin, and had spent his whole life in Norwich. February 2, 1881, he was married to Emma McKnight and since that time Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin have lived in Greeneville, where he was engaged in the meat business on Central avenue.

WHAT THE FIRST SELECTMAN SAYS

Explanation of the Trouble at Montville and Statement as to What Was Provided for Inmates of the Almshouse There.

For some time past there was been nuch printed and talked about the affairs at the Montville almshouse and cocurrence a few weeks since when Charles Dougal froze his feet and was brought to the Backus hospital and suffered a partial amputation of the same. A statement has been made by First Selectman Moses Chapman in regard to the affairs at the almshouse as follows:

furnish me with a list of articles she needed, list to include everything she needed for the comfort of the poor.

"Meanwhile Mr. Blake appeared and the next day. May 13: I took Mr. Blake, his team, and the list, and went to Norwich and bought every article the list called for. The second day after the fire the goods were landed at the tenement, which denles their statement in regard to being deprived of a fire and having to sleep on the floor for four nights, through the negligence of the selectman.

"In trading at the different stores in the town, Mr. and Mrs. Blake have never been restricted, either in quality, quantity, or variety of goods that ity, quantity, or variety of goods that they had a mind to order, up to Sep-lectmen, with only five inmates in the house. Since that time, we have retricted them to groceries principally, although we are willing at any time, if notified by the keepers, to furnish anything that appears to be for the comfort of the inmates. Mrs. Blake had the privilege, and exercised it, of going to Palmer Bros. Co. and ordering all the bedquiits she wished without any restrictions and during the cold weather they had four stoves which they could use at any time. "During the heated term (I am not referring now to the heated term which the selectmen experienced in January, when they went up there to take an inventory), but the hot weather in July and August Mrs. Blake came to me and requested that they have the privilege of moving back to the farm and occupying the outbuildings, as the Oakdale tenement was so uncomfortable on account of the heat, also that Mr. Blake would be nearer his work. I gave my consent to this if the inmates were willing. It was at this time that Mrs. Avery of Hill Top, Montville, president of the Sunshine society, carried to them a large amount of goods, mostly clothing, enough, I understand, to last them at least one year. This was about two months previous to the bill they contracted at Porteous & Mitchell's store which they say they were compelled to do on account of the threadbare condition and the suffering of the inmates.

Norwich is trying to se-are the adoption of a plan of this have completed the valuation of property throughout the town and have submitted their figures to the board of relief, which is now in session and London Day. Norwich is trying to secure the adoption of a plan of this kind, and Waterbury and Bridgeport are threatening to do something of the same kind. Let us wish them luck. I believe no opposition to the proposed new plan of city government for Norwich has yet developed. If none appears before the legislative hearings it is very likely its petition will be granted. Then Norwich will be watched with great interest by the citizens of our other cities in order to ascertain how her new government works out. It started in to run a municipal gas and electric plant some probably will be until the end of the The following figures are the totals of taxable and exempt property of the town as left by the assessors: Non-residents ..... $737,672 over last year's list.

The following set of figures show the work of the assessors for the year in regard to the valuation of the property owned by both residents and non-residents: ly two citizens of the Rose can be found to agree as to the ultimate wisdom of that step. One thing is certain, the present day consumers of gas and electricity in Norwich are getting both these necessities at much lower rate than the citizens of New London get them. What will befall the future residents of our up the river neighbor when the city's gas and electric obligations mature is another matter. obligations mature is another matter They are now living on the principle of "sufficient unto the day is the evil

One feature of most of these commissions by government plans should not escape notice. The promoters frop so to do away with newspaper publicity — that is, paid publicity. The dear newspapers are going to be asked to do all the city advertising free of charge. Great scheme, isn't it? Of course the newspapers in their keen rivalry for news will print it the city's legal advertising for nothin. Yes, they will. The bright minds who conceived the commission plan of government evidently beliave newspapers are just eleemosynary institutions, and not dependent upon business receipts to keep their presses going. Perhaps they should be pardoned, so many people are possessed of the same belief. I wonder how Norwich, for instance, is going to keep its residents informed as to what its governing powers are doing or intend doing? The scheme smacks of star chamber proceedings. It is true, all meetings of the governing commission are open, or supposed to be, but everyone cannot attend these meatings. Suppose the commission wants to let contracts for public work, or hold hearings upon assessments how The figures that follow cover the ex-The figures that follow cover the exempt property, which is owned by soldiers, soldiers' widows and blind:

The Waterford grand list, as completed by the board of assessors, shows an increase for 1910 of $104,696 over the list for 1909. The grand total for 1910 is $1,869,441.

Of this amount the resident taxpayor this amount the resident tapayers contribute $1,059,507 and the non-residents $809,934. While there are slight increases here and there shown on the resident list, the major portion of the increase comes from the additions to the non-resident property

Suppose the commission wants contracts for public work, or to let contracts for public work, or hold hearings upon assessments, how will it secure public notice-that will be ample to meet the emergency? Even commission forms of government for cities differ in detail, and some do cail for advertising some city notices in the newspapers, but most of them do not. It has generally been thought, before this new idea movement started, that public business could not get too much publicity, and that advertising it in the newspapers was the best way of getting it before the people. owners' list.

The actual increase on the resident list is $5.117, while the increase to the non-resident list is $98.579.

that advertising it in the newspapers was the best way of getting it before the people.

In their zeal for economy the promoters of commission form of government have foolishly concluded that there was no need of advertising city business—that if the taxpayers wanted to know anything about the doings or intentions of the commission, they could go to the commissioners and ask them about it. To make it appear as if publicity is to be insured to all of the commission doings, the acts creating the commission form of government usually reads that a report of all proceedings will be "given" the newspapers. When the commissioners want bids for supplies, coal, etc., or bids for constructing a fire house, they evidently are supposed to hand the latter, in the goodness of their hearts, are expected to print them all without charge. The programme for the evening will be as follows: AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.
Large sized houses greeted the new bill on Thursday afternoon and evening, and the patrons went away much pleased with the offerings of the different vaudeville turns. Fanny Wood and girls, who are featured for the last three days of the week, present a very neat singing and dancing act on the musical comedy order, in which they introduce many new and catchy songs in a very novel manner, Greene and Parker are a clever comedy team, who keep the house in an uproar of laught ter for the 15 minutes they are before the footlights. Mr. Greene is a comedian of no mean ability and puts over a lot of good stuff in a way all his own. Billy Woodall, the minstrel man, had to respond to an insistent encore at each performance and scored heavily in all his numbers, while Spencer and Williams complete the bill with a very near singing act, in which they introduce the very latest of songs and several costume changes. The motion patures are all of a very interesting nature.
